

One day I know the struggle will change. There's got to be a change — not only for Mississippi, not only the United States, but for people all over the world. Nobody's free until everybody's free.

Fannie Lou Hamer

On August 31, 1962, she traveled with 17 others to the county courthouse to register to vote; only two were allowed to register. She was fired from her job on a cotton plantation —

They kicked me off the plantation, they set me free. It's the best thing that could happen. Now I can work for my people.

I feel sorry for anybody that could let hate wrap them up. Ain't no such thing as I can hate anybody and hope to see God's face.

I want you to say, "I'm with you." And we'll go up this freedom road together.

behind.

Because you could be two hundred miles

Well, move, I don't want you back there.

"Honey, I'm behind you."

I don't want to hear you say,

It's one thing I don't want you to say tonight

after I finish—

All of this is on account we want to register, to become first-

class citizens, and if the Freedom Democratic Party is not seated now, I question America.

Is this America, the land of the free and the home of the brave, where we have to sleep with our telephones off the hooks because our lives are threatened daily because we want to live as decent human beings in America?

We know the things we doing is right. The thirty-seventh of Psalms said, "Fret not thouself because of evildoers, neither be thy envious against the workers of iniquity for they shall be cut down like the green grass and with away as the green herb. Delight thouself in the Lord and verily thou shalt be filled." And we are determined to be filled in Mississippi today.
